

Global Citizenship Award Recipients Announced at AASSA Educator's Conference

RIO DE JANEIRO (4 APRIL 2017) – TieCare International field representatives Frank Cappuccio and Luciene Dasilva were present as the recipients of the annual Association of American Schools in South America (AASSA) Global Citizen Award were announced at the 2017 AASSA Educator's Conference at Escola Americana do Rio de Janeiro.

This year's recipients are:

- Erik Novak – American School of Rio
- Maria Jose Arrea – Lincoln School (Costa Rica)
- Emma Wynter – American International School of Kingston, Jamaica
- Tech for the Future Club – Carol Morgan School
- Key Club – Georgetown International Academy, Guyana

TieCare sponsors the $4,000 award, which goes to a student or group of students selected from AASSA member schools that has made exemplary contributions through a school and/or community-based service program which has led to greater international understanding, positive local or global change, addressing a global challenge, or changed lives.

AASSA is one of the seven partner associations TieCare provides monetary donations to host service awards that recognize key contributors to the local and international community.
